Excerpt from The Climbers: An Address in the Rodef Shalom Temple, Pittsburgh, Sunday, November 24, 1912 Immediately after Darwin s discoveries had become well established in the minds of the thoughtful, a Ger man philosopher, Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche applied these biological laws to human experience. Nietzsche showed that the survival of the fittest must be taken to mean the survival of the strongest. Germany responded to this teaching by becoming an armed camp. The phil osophy of blood and iron, of force and fist, became apotheosized and, from the Emperor down, the German people. Evolved into a perfect fighting machine. It was, and still is, held that, if Germany is to maintain her posi tion in Europe, conscription must be rigidly enforced and the young German must be developed into a physi cal giant.
