

Dare Say (Paperback)

By Tod Marshall

University of Georgia Press, United States, 2002. Paperback. Condition: New. New.. Language: English . Brand New Book. Eschewing irony for direct statement, the poems in Tod Marshall's first collection imaginistically, musically, and passionately articulate a faith in human transcendence. From the mud of our formation (Choir) to the dust of our dying (After Kandinsky), Marshall's poems lyrically obsess over how the broken and violated can envision and speak a heaven of which we know. Three long poems that shape the book are formative in this process. From the structured order of Bach's Goldberg Variations looming behind the opening poem, Eclipse, to the clash of pagan beauty and traditional religiosity in Botticelli, to the Modernist meditation on form in After Kandinsky, the poems return again and again to the idea of analogical presence and how it can be best rendered in art to inspire a celebratory ethos of living. Are the violent and shocking events those that best slap us awake? Or are the gentle, lyrical moments the times when we are most keenly aware of the song that is Being? In After Kandinsky, Marshall writes, like syntax; a poem that fixes the body;...
