Excerpt from The War Work of the County of Lennox and Addington: Published Under the Auspices of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society The purpose of this volume is to place on record in an enduring form the achievements of the people of Lennox and Addington in the Great War. No event in the history of the county stirred them to such depths or called forth such prolonged and united efforts, the full effect of which no one can measure. The zeal displayed in the cause that lay so near to the hearts of Fall classes and ages was a revelation to themselves, for when they once grasped the full significance of the issues at stake, all other considerations were laid aside and all their energies were centred upon the winning of the war. There were, of course, exceptions in both town and country; but these only emphasized the general rule that the great mass of the people were thoroughly alive to the needs of the situation. They were living in a new world, breathing a new but invigorating atmosphere and as they paused in their manifold efforts, when the war was at its fiercest stage, and looked back upon the peaceful days of a few years before, it all seemed strange to them. So, now, since the belligerents have laid down their arms, and we look back to the days of the war, we ask ourselves can it be that we actually passed through all those years of turmoil, strife, anxiety and sorrow? There is such a difference between peace and war that our very natures seem to have under gone a change in passing from the one to the other....
