The London Press, UK, 2009. Cloth. Condition: New. First Edition. The Final Tally is the autobiography of Colonel Philip (Tom) Cobley MBE, late PARA, which describes his unique military career spanning forty years of active service, from 1969 to 2009. Sixteen of these years were served in the Australian Regular Army and twenty-four were in the British Army. Service in two armies is unusual in itself; however, the author was able to serve in a total of five Infantry regiments (The Pacific Islands Regiment, The Royal Australian Regiment, The Staffordshire Regiment, The Kings Own Royal Border Regiment, and the Parachute Regiment) a feat never before achieved in the entire history of the British Army. Colonel Cobley s service has seen him commanding for eight years at Infantry Company level, including light Infantry, mechanised, armoured, and airborne Infantry. Even though this record is unprecedented, the author has also served in the front line of ten wars and armed conflicts, gaining a total of seventeen medals from Australia, Britain, the UN, NATO, and the EU, which is another record never before achieved. This has included operational service in Northern Ireland, Bosnia, Kosovo, Afghanistan, and Iraq. The Final Tally graphically depicts what it is actually like to be in the front line, for example, In harm s way; on the Baghdad road and in the line of fire. But more importantly, it gives a strategic overview of the political and military decision-making process at the highest levels of government. These fascinating insights are reinforced by Colonel Cobley s experiences in the PARAs, where he was responsible for the training of the SAS, SBS, and the Pathfinder Platoon, 5 Airborne Brigade in High Altitude Low Opening (HALO) and High Altitude High Opening (HAHO) from 36,000 feet. During this time, Colonel Cobley qualified...
