Excerpt: . . . able and instructive opinion, held that neither at common law, nor under the constitution of the United States, had the jury any right to judge of the law. This was in the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. In a criminal case tried in the Circuit Court of the United States, in the city of New York, Mr. Justice THOMPSON, when requested to charge the jury that they were judges of the law as well as the facts, briefly, but not ambiguously, answered: I shunt: they aint. 2 Whar. Criminal Law, 3100. In Pierce v. The State, 13 N. H. , 536, the indictment charged a violation of the Act regulating the sale of wines and spirituous liquors. The defend. -ints counsel contended that the jury were the judges of the law as well as the facts in the case; that it was their duty to judge of the constitutionality of the Act, and to form their own opinion upon that question, and that the Court had no right to zn. ruct them in relation to questions of law, --it could only mlvise them. The Court held that the jury were notjudgcs of the law in criminal cases. Ve cannot believe, said the Court, that impartial and reflecting men, of whatever profession they may be, can advocate doctrines which may lead to such results as the right of the jury to decide the law may end in. No reflecting...
