

Confronting Iran

By Ali M. Ansari

Hurst & Company, London, UK. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: New. First Edition. The Islamic Republic of Iran's ongoing nuclear programme has provoked a major and menacing crisis in its relations with the US and other Western powers. Ali Ansari argues that crisis is a symptom of broader, long-term fissures in US-Iranian relations, and in Confronting Iran he seeks to disentangle the myths that are at the bottom of this gulf in understanding, which is compounded by the nature of the states, their foreign policy establishments and the fraught history of their relations since the 1979 revolution. Ansari reviews the historical antecedents of the crisis, in particular US-Iranian relations since 9/11 and attempts by the EU to broker a settlement acceptable to all parties. He argues that the European position has been dictated as much by its relations with the US in the wake of the invasion of Iraq as by domestic politics in Iran, and he concludes by assessing the election of Mahmud Ahmadinejad as President and its likely impact on the view from Tehran and Washington. This account of a potential flashpoint in relations between the Muslim world and the West could not be more timely....

Reviews

An extremely great ebook with perfect and lucid answers. This is certainly for anyone who states that there was not a well worth looking at. It's been designed in an exceptionally simple way and is particularly only soon after I finished reading through this ebook in which actually transformed me, modify the way in my opinion.
