Excerpt from State of California Department of Natural Resources, Division of Fish and Game: Thirty-Fifth Biennial Report for the Years 1936-1938 Your excellency is of course familiar with the fact that during the biennium the number of members Of this Board was increased by the legislature from three men to five. The additional commissioners did not take office until close to the end Of the biennium and therefore this report for the most part is a report of the Commission as it was constituted prior to the establishment Of the five-member board. The biennium just past and which is the subject of this report has been unusually successful from the standpoint Of fish and game management because during this period the organization Of the Division has had full opportunity to concentrate on the six-point program with all of the financial and personnel facilities at our command. The results of the program speak readily for themselves and we refer you to the statistical reports included at the back of this report. You will see during this period the number of our people in California who have availed themselves of the opportunity to hunt and fish has materially increased. You will also see that the financial resources of the Commission have increased proportionately. We respectfully call your attention to the increased take Of all sport fish and game, thus showing that in spite of the increase in the numbers of fishermen and hunters, the State has been able to maintain a supply of fish and game to meet reasonable demands. We are glad to report that the increased take has not resulted in the depletion of any of the more popular species....
