PLANKTON WONDERS OF THE DRIFTING WORLD

University Of Chicago Press. Hardcover. Condition: New. 224 pages. Plankton are the great drifters of the sea, any creature carried along by ocean currents. They range in size from the tiniest virus to siphonophores, the longest animals in the world, and also include microscopic algae, krill, and even fish larvae. This floating world is the foundation of the aquatic food web, without which there would be no fish. They also consume as much carbon dioxide as all land trees and...
