A similar circuit breaker is on the 500-volt charging circuit. Testing.--Weston instruments are installed for testing current strength and voltage and, in connection with the grounding switch, can be used for testing for grounds. At Houses, etc.--A gong in each department house is operated direct from the alarm circuits. Relays are provided to control marking registers, small gongs in the quarters of call men, automatic appliances for releasing horses and turning on lights, and three tower bells which are located at engine houses. Five tower bells at the other engine houses are sounded by hand. Bell alarms are also repeated on a steam whistle by an employee at the First and Grove streets station of the Oakland Gas Light Heat Co. Telephones.--All houses are connected to a small switchboard at fire alarm headquarters by special circuits, not more than two houses being on any one circuit. All circuits can, however, be rung up simultaneously and can be connected through the switchboard to the central exchange of the Telephone Company. Boxes.--Description.--Total in service 117.
